

Meet the Speaker

Lisa Nisenson

Lisa Nisenson is on the forefront of helping cities adopt innovation. She is Vice President of New Mobility and Connected Communities for the Wantman Group (WGI), developing new scenario and anticipatory planning services, as well as planning techniques and project designs that adapt to trends.

She is founder of the civic start-up, GreaterPlaces, an award-winning site aggregating all aspects of city and transportation design. She holds leadership positions in the American Planning Association Sustainable Communities Division and Smart City Task Force. Previously she has worked with Alta Planning + Design; Sarasota County, FL; and the US Environmental Protection Agency's Smart Growth office. She is a graduate of Meredith College and Harvard University.

