

About this Project

The multimodal transportation center project will locate, design and build a facility in downtown Boise.

The center will serve as a “hub” for many different types of transportation and related functions.

The center could house buses, streetcars and regional high-capacity transit such as bus rapid transit or passenger rail.

It may also include a transit information kiosk, bicycle and automobile parking, public art, restrooms and retail space.

